

MEYERS SAYS WELLS WILL SWEEP STATE

Frank Meyers, U. S. commissioner of immigration and widely acquainted throughout Arizona, in an interview yesterday stated that Judge Wells will sweep Arizona at the coming general state election, says the Douglas Dispatch.

"I have known Judge Wells," said Mr. Meyers, "since 1891, and I honestly believe he is the strongest man the republican party in Arizona could have placed on the ticket. I make this statement mindful of the many good qualities of former Governor Kibbey and with due deference to the very worthy and able gentleman mentioned. I want to say that had Kibbey and Wells been placed on the same ticket the latter would have been nominated.

"But that is neither here nor there. Wells is the nominee and no one is better pleased, I dare say, than Mr. Kibbey. The Prescott statesman will carry Yavapai county without a struggle and there is no question in my mind that he will defeat Hunt two to one in Cochise. That seems a broad statement, but I am pretty well acquainted with conditions."

ARIZONA EASTERN IS MAKING NEW SURVEY

The Arizona Eastern civil engineers are now engaged in surveying a line from Miami to the Inspiration mine. When this switch line is completed it will give to the Inspiration company the same facilities now enjoyed by the Miami Copper company. The new line will not in any way interfere with the Miami townsite as a route was left open for this purpose when the town was platted. Three crossings are arranged. One at Cordova avenue just below the lumber yards in the original townsite. Two will be provided in the Inspiration addition. One at Forest avenue and one at Reppy avenue.—Globe Democrat.

DOUGLAS WILL HAVE NEW KIND OF ENGINE

Douglas will have the distinction, once the engines of the new pumping plant, west of the C. and A. smelter are set going, of having the two first internal combustion engines in Arizona. There are but few of this type in the entire west. It is the belief of the water commission that with the installation of this type the cost of pumping will be reduced to one tenth or possibly one fifteenth of the present amount.

The engines which have a horse power of 125 each on sea level are estimated to furnish 112 horsepower at this altitude. Residue oils from which all the naphtha, gasoline and other by-products have been removed at the refineries is the fuel employed to drive them. The saving on fuel alone will be a great one.

Two engines and two pumps have been installed to be operated alternately for use in case of a break down of either one or the other. It is the anticipation of G. H. Johnson, of Kansas City, the expert in charge of installation that the engines will be ready to turn over to the city by the

Why Buy Indigestion?

If you know how much lard your grocer sells couldn't you tell pretty well how much indigestion there is in the neighborhood? Lard is made from hog fat and is often indigestible. It is heavy in your stomach than on the scales. Buy Cottolene, however, and you get a vegetable-oil cooking fat that is as pure and wholesome as olive oil. Besides, Cottolene is more economical than butter or lard—one-third less being required.

Remember, Cottolene contains no hog fat; there's no lard indigestion in food cooked with Cottolene.

BALL FANS GALLERY OF NOTABLES

(Copyright 1911 by W. W. Aulick.)

HAROLD CHASE,
Who's Going to be Great Man When He Grows Up.

Harold Chase, of Highland Park, will be a great little squire when he gets grown. Just at present, he is young and tender and blonely romantic looking and looks as if he would appreciate it if you would slip him a dime and tell him to stake himself to a chocolate sundae. He romps around the house of the friend where he makes his home, and plays catch with the other twelve-year-olds of the neighborhood. But plant him out in the good sward of American League Park, with a glove on his right hand and a goodly tennis of tried mettle against the Yanks, and you have positively the hardest first baseman that ever covered the bag within the years of recent memory.

For all his baby stare and slimy youthfulness, Hal is properly able to show the rest of the league, American, National and all how the game of ball should be played. You may cut this out and paste it over your white bed—There never was a first baseman, and probably there never will be one, who could cover the infield—mind you, the infield—with less of effort and more of grace than Hal Chase. Nothing he does seems forced, or even difficult for him. He is the personification of lithe youthfulness, a man in love with the work he is doing, therefore doing the work excellently well.

Chase is a native son, which means that he was born in California. Why it should mean this, is not your affair or mine. Why a man born in New York or Chicago or Denver isn't a native son, just as a man born in California is, can't be explained in this brief moment. Hal was raised in the far west. Let it go that way, Los Gatos, Alviso and San Jose were the big three towns so far as young Chase was concerned. One of them he was born in, the middle one he moved to and the last one is all his own because he makes it his winter playground.

Santa Clara college took him on at an age when he was even more youthful than he is today. Santa Clara gave him the best she had in the way of education, and Hal responded with the free gift of the best in baseball. They said he was going to be a great pitcher some day, and Harold would not deny it. He felt sort of that way about it himself. Morley, manager of the Los Angeles team, saw Hal a bit later and said something about an opening on the team of the Angel City. Hal took it. They didn't know anything about him in Los Angeles except that Morley had picked him out, and Morley was conceded to be quite a clever little chooser at times. Before the end of the season, however, they became acquainted, and the fame of the stripping spread from the west coast to the east. In California they consulted him about Japanese immigration, the best way of guarding against earthquakes, and the Philippine question in Washington, D. C. they named their favorite club Chevy Chase. He got known, Hal did.

Not to be outdone, the New York American wanted a compliment across the continent. This, taking the form of a draft, Mr. Chase packed up his blue necktie, and little dinky kid-hat and put a pair of long pants in his grip, so's he'd look grown up, and came on east and has been here ever since, with a notable exception or two, which it is not necessary here to enlarge upon. Since he has been in New York, he has had the small-pox, the favor of the fans, the best notices in the reviews of the games, the confidence of Frank Farrell and a team that came so doggone near winning the championship that the supporters of the Athletics trembled. Likewise, he has become the manager of the Yanks, and the one best bet in the way of a Futurity winner—speaking of him personally and individually, for perish the thought that we should speculate upon club finances.

Hal Chase, who is now a real big figure in ball, is now learning how to smoke cigars. Once he stayed out until almost nine o'clock in the evening, and it is on the cards that Edward Everett Bell, his guardian and friend, is going to take him to the theater some Saturday night when he won't have to get up early next day. It's great to be young and Hal Chase.

Now that his wares are traveling by the "side-door Pullman," probably the magazine editor feels that the most harrowing disaster that can be chronicled is a freight wreck.

ED. GEERS ON HAND FOR THE BIG RACES

Arizona Track Now Has the Best Possible Recommendation.

"The finest race track I ever saw!" That is the observation credited to Ed Geers, the most famous driver of harness horses in the world, after a visit to the track of the Arizona fair grounds, yesterday. Geers, whose name is one to conjure with wherever horsemen congregate, is known the world over by track followers as "Pop" Geers, a term expressive of familiarity, love and respect combined. He arrived here yesterday morning and is now stopping at the Annex.

The Geers horses arrived last night by Wells Fargo express, a half dozen of them, and that is enough to turn the eyes of the horse world in this direction during fair week. Among the lot is The Harvester, the champion trotting stallion of the world, which has been burning up the grand circuit tracks all season, and is regarded as the most sensational horse of the year. Another is Anvil, which is almost as notable, being the winner of the M. & M. stake at Detroit this year.

PIMPLES ON FACE CAUSED GREAT DISFIGUREMENT

For Three Long Years, Suffered Great Deal. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Brought Marvelous Results. In Few Weeks Cured Completely.

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also suffering and loss of sleep. At first there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching. I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public."

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face, and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be." (Signed) G. Baumel, 1015 W. 20th Place, Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Remedies have afforded the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp. A cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and a box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient. Although sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each with 25¢ back on the skin, will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 28A, Boston.

garded as the most sensational horse of the year. Another is Anvil, which is almost as notable, being the winner of the M. & M. stake at Detroit this year.

Still a third animal of note is Ess H. Kay, which won the free for all trot in Lexington last week. Brandenbaugh is a fourth horse of more than passing fame and there are two others in the car that are no disgrace to their company.

But with all due regard for Pop Geers' stable, in many ways he will be a bigger attraction at the fair than all the horses. First, because he is the dean of the harness racing circle; secondly, he is accredited with having almost a magic touch on a leather rein and many a famous nag has been pushed under the wire to victory, receiving its impulse from the storage battery of Geers' personality. Another reason is that hundreds of western men who are interested in the horse business and have read much of Geers in the last quarter of a century, have never had an opportunity to see him in action, and now that they have they will be glad to embrace it. Lastly, the Arizona fair and its race track, like every progressive institution, wants more advertising and it can have the sympathy of no better agency than Ed Geers. When the world knows that he says the Arizona track leads them all, the last word has been said.

In Norway the fishermen sometimes employ a rude sort of water telescope of their own invention. A tube of tin is procured, of funnel shape and about three and one-half feet in length, and nine inches in diameter at the broadest end. It is made wide enough at the top to take in the observer's eye and the inside is painted black. At the bottom or wide end a clear, thick piece of glass is inserted, with a little lead in the form of a ring to weight the tube. When the instrument is immersed in clear water it is claimed that the observer can see an astonishing number of fathoms.

Neuralgia of the face, shoulder, hands or feet requires a powerful remedy that will penetrate the flesh. BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT possesses that power. Rubbed in where the pain is felt is all that is necessary to relieve suffering and restore normal conditions. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Elvey & Hulet.
